Judgo Advocate-General Davis has made a reply to the foregoing in which he says the instances of atrocities were made the subject of special investigations, resulting in administrative action as in court-martials. As to some phases of these accusations, says General Davis, the investigations are not yet complete. The distribution of rice, General Davis says, was a military necessity, and she profits were tirned over to the Insular treasury, for use in further relief.

Sensiti statished to conditions in Cuba. He said:

"The Cuban government is gotting along well. In fact, in the present government and the general contentment of the people I see what I have for years hoped for, and for which I fought through two bitter wars. No one can form an adequate idea of the sufferings of the Cuban people and what they had to contend with during the last few years of Spanish control. But with all of this, the country has recuperated wonderfully, and is to-day in a much better condition industrially than those who were in Cuba at the close of the war dared to hope.

"The Cuban loan of $35,000,000 has not been floated, but it will be in a short time, and when it is the Cuban soldiers are to be paid. It is my desire as well as that of President Palma, that this debt we owe to the seldlers who fought for their country be paid as soon as possible.

"The little ripple we are having about Of the Moros, General Miles says: "The problem of reducing or centrolling thuse people in case of continued hostillites does not appear to be a difficult one. They does not appear to be a difficult one. They are very poorly armed and have no means of withstanding our mountain artillory and field mortars. Their forts possess but slight resisting power, and can easily be destroyed by modern artilliers.

their country be paid as soon as possible.

"The little ripple we are having about the taxation of patent medicines is nothing, in fact, this is a provincial and not an insular matter. The ingular government is not concerned. There is only a two cent tax on patent medicine packages, and it does not affect the trade to any appreciable extent.

"I will see President Roosevelt while on this trip. Of course, every one feels the greatest interest in and gratitude to the American people, and I will express the compilments and best whales of President Palma and the Cuban government to the President of the United States."

General Gomez and party left to-night for fit, Louis. They will remain in the United States for about two weeks. Of the roads to Lake Lango, he says "At the time of my visit there wer Of the roads to Lake Lando, he says:
"At the time of my visit there were 600 of our men at work on this road. The heat was intense, and there were at the time seventy men sick and some 200 men on sick relief. Unless there be some great military necessity—and I know of none—this work should not be performed by troops. There appears to be very great dissatisfaction and just ground for reat dissatisfication and just scottle for complaint."

The more important observations and recommendations of General Miles are as follows:

"The general condition of the troops in the archipelago was creditable to themselves and to the country.' The offiers and soldlers made a good appear ance.

The effect of the climate is a mos

The effect of the climate is a most serious detriment to the service. The men go there in perfect health and in the prime of manhood, but as a body are seriously affected in the course of two or three years' service. Very few escape, but the majority are debilitated.

"As the military stations, with but few exceptions, are very remote and the troops are required to be in communities that are neither beneficial nor congenial to them, the service is depressing, and, to some extent, has a demoralizing effect. During they visits, to the garrisons it so happened that I did not see a single solder under the influence of liquor. As the result of my observations it is my judgment that the discontinuance of, the liquor feature of the canteen had been beneficial to the army. Now that the temptation had been removed from the immediate presence of the young men of the army, they are less likely to indulge in the use of liquor.

PROBLEMATIC. ant Conger and a party of assistants and native scouts were moved from place to place for the purpose of extorting statements by means of torture, and it became so notorious that this party was called 'Glenn's Brigade.' Whether it was possible for officials to be engaged in such acts without the personal knowledge of the general upon whose staff they were serving at the time, namely, General Hughes, I leave for others to confecture. COMMON TALK.

"These facts came to my notice in a casual way, and many others of similar character have been reported in different parts of the archipelago. In fact, I was informed that it was common talk at the places where officers congregated that such transactions had been carried on either with the connivance or approval of certain commanding officers. It is, however, most gradifying to state that such airocities have been condemned by such commanders as Generals Lawton, Wade, Sumner, Lee Baldwin and others. "I found that with certain officers the impression prevaits that such acts were justifiable, and I fet; it my duty, in order to correct such erroneous and dangerous impression, and to prevent the possibility of such acts being committed in the future, which must impair the good name of American arms, and bring discredit to our service for all time, to direct that any orders or circulars of personal instructions which were used to encourage any cruelty be annulled."

General Miles directs attention to the acts of reconcentration by General Bell, and claims that they were in direct violation of the law. He easys the law was also violated in handling and buying large quantities of rice which was sold at a profit. The people who were in the reconcentration camps, says General Miles. "Wore considered prisoners of war, but were compelled to buy food from

PROBLEMATIC.

"The number of troops that will be required to occupy the Philippines are still problematic. While it is claimed that the people are pacified, evidences of hostility toward American sovereignty of hostility toward American sovereignty are apparent. The newspapers published in both Spanish and English contain almost daily accounts of hostilities, depredations or disturbances of the peace. Against these armed hands the olvi government is employing the constabulary, a force of about 6,000 men.

"I found a large proportion of the troops occupying church property, monasteries, colleges and convents. This I believe to be entirely wrong, and it should be discontinued without delay."

says: "While the supplies have, as a rule "While the supplies have, as a rule, been abundant and of good quality, there is, in my opinion, too much cold storage meat used for the good of the troops, its constant use becomes very distasteful, and to many persons it is not the most healthful."

General Miles says the Philippine Islands are as defenseless to-day as they were five years ago, and renews his recommendation that at least one stratestic selling its fortified beyond the receibility.

"In my bourneys through the archipelage, I was frequently appealed to to aid in assisting the people to obtain food supply, of which the contract of the cont aid in assisting the people to obtain a food supply, of which they would be in great need in the near future. I do not think there is to-day a people so sorely afflicted as the $0,000 inhabitants of this archipelago. Sickness has prevalled, assuming in some districts the proportions of a serious accurage."

General Miles recommended that transports should be used to bring out wheat and corn, and then used to bring out wheat and corn, and then used to bring out wheat the serious accurates the serious and cartillo.

REPLIES RECEIVED.

Some portions of General Miles report were sent to the different chiefs of bureaus, and replies from several officers have been received:
General Gillespie, chief of engineers, says: "That Manila harbor or any other harbor in the insular possessions is not now defended, or is not in process of defense, is because Congress 182 not so willed it."
General O'Rellly, surgeon-general says:

General O'Reilly, surgeon-general, says:
"The bad effect of the climate on the health of the army is a simple fact. 1

liquor bill, which was put on as an amendment in the Senate, and in view of the great public interest in the matter, it is printed in full below. There are said to be some errors and omissions in the Mann amendment, which will have to be corrected by separate bills, and to this never heard it better done.

Mr. Frederick Mautin, who always sings so well that one is rather inclined to take him for granted, earned decided honors. The part of Mophistopheles fits him like a snug wig and music cozes out of his every finger tip.

Her Andreas Dippel appeared for the first time. His voice is magnificently healthy, and big enough to make two o'dlinary tenors, but it is somewhat hard and unsympatitetic, and on that account was slightly disappointing.

Madam Bouton started out to do some thrilling work; she fairly builed herself at the audience vocally. She has dramatic temperament, and she uses her voice like a true artist.
